

The Marriott and Corona Beer provide the place to be on Friday nights!

You're done with dinner, the moon is full, and you are in no mood to go back to your room or donate money to the casino, who what's to do? It's a Friday night, and whether you are taking a vacation, or living on the island, the Friday night mood is to get out and have fun, as usually, one does not have to worry about work in the morning.

The Marriott Resort and Stellaris Casino partnered with Aruba Trading Company and Corona beer have the answer in the Barefoot Beach Bash that premiered this past Friday on the waterside of the Marriott Ocean Club. One need only follow the sound of the music and laughter for some great fun and entertainment by well-known island host Giovanni Trim. Giovanni has a great voice, and an event greater talent of getting the audience on stage to show the gathering what they've got! Chris Boghigian of Randolph, New Jersey wowed the audience with his moves as he imitated Ricky Martin living "The Vida Loca" and won himself some Coronitas to boot! Felix Cruz of Brooklyn, New York, according to Giovanni, was definitely "The Man" as he showed everyone how to sing, "I just called to say I love you" Stevie Wonder style, sunglasses and all.

The Barefoot Beach Bash is definitely the place to be any Friday night from 9:00 PM to 1:00 AM, especially if you like your Corona Beer and karaoke. The first fifty arrivals get a FREE Coronita, and if you are brave, or have had enough beers already to lose your inhibitions, you can get on the stage and win more. Bring your camera and you can get your picture taken with some very bodacious Corona Girls, and if beer is not your drink, there is plenty of Red Bull on hand to keep you awake for a night of fun and mixed drinks are also available.

It was giant Mexican hats and good clean barefoot fun on Friday night, and guests attending gave the bash two thumbs up!
